

We are searching for talents!

JobTitle	Java developer
Position	regular full-time
Location	Berlin, Germany

To support the growing business of a Berlin-based start-up company we are looking for Java Developers.

Zimory is building an infrastructure for a datacenters based on virtualization technologies like Xen or VMWare. The Zimory technology will help datacenters to gain a much higher flexibility by leveraging a worldwide resource pool.

You will be part of a development team to revolutionize the management of virtualized datacenters. The company has recently been founded around a team of Xen and Java experts and is funded by well-known venture firms. Our solid growth strategy allows us to hire highly motivated software engineers.

Your responsibility

You will be

- leading the development of specific modules of the Zimory solution
- building together with the rest of the team a complex web-based application
- building integration solutions on customer sites

Who we're looking for

You have

- a proven track record of Java development
- knowledgeable in the area of web services and / or database development (hibernate)
- understanding of complex challenges and learning skills are a big plus for this job
- strong communication skills to, ability to engage and convey ideas to technical / non-technical teams
- passion for good software and you are highly motivated
- interest in understanding complex challenges
- fluent spoken English skills

We can offer you working in a pulsating business focusing on a completely new international market for dynamic IT resources. In this atmosphere you can learn fast and get responsibility for the success of the entire company. So don't miss this experience!

What's on offer

Competitive package.

If you are interested we are looking forward to receiving your application including your letter of motivation and CV.

Please send your application to Max.
jobs@zimory.com

www.zimory.com